

John Bradley

Response to *Inevitable Pain

I love Prof. Berry's first major program....The Dance Connection. Sound like fun for a young man, especially since he got to make a lot of judgement calls. While he was programming his love connection software Berry said he felt like he was skiing with an avalanche hot on his tail. This sounds quite familiar. I feel the same way when I am programming and then in the blink of an eye 12 hours has gone by. Here we go again, another software developer thinking about organization and cleanly creating software. Of course, Berry arrives at "Extreme Programming," very cool. Yes, software development is so expansive it's very unmanageable. Well Professor Berry, will you grasp the wind and command it?